PREFACE

BLS proceedings are always collaborative efforts, but this volume has been an especially clear example of this. The editors would like to thank two main groups: those who helped get BLS 1997 off the ground and those who assisted in the production of the volume itself. In the first group, special thanks go to Ashlee Bailey and Jan Johnson, the latter being especially instrumental in reconciling the inevitable differing points of view that arise in such enterprises. Among those contributing to the volume, Jeff Good and Lisa Conathan deserve special mention for coming on board and helping sort out a number of issues. As always, we also wish to thank the graduate students in the Berkeley Linguistics Department and, of course, the presenters, who showed great patience in the editing process and without whom neither the conference nor the proceedings would have been possible.
