PREFACE

This volume marks the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Berkeley Linguistics Society. To celebrate this anniversary, the 1984 conference included a number of invited speakers, as well as our first parasession, a day and a half dedicated to papers on subordination. This volume includes submitted and invited papers from both sessions.

Two groups of people deserve special recognition. First, we thank all who submitted abstracts, as well as the authors whose contributions made the conference and this volume such a success.

Second, we would like to thank the large number of student volunteers whose time and efforts were essential to the organization of the meeting and the production of the volume. These people are too numerous to mention individually, but include those who served on committees judging submitted abstracts, chairs of individual sessions at the meeting, those who helped with registration and book sales, and those who assisted in the editing process. We would like to thank Orin Gensler for compiling the language index, and we also thank the administrative staff of the Berkeley Linguistics Department for their help during the period preceding the conference.

We are pleased to have been able to participate in the tenth annual conference, and dedicate these Proceedings to the many people who have contributed to the success of BLS in its first decade.
