PROCEEDINGS FROM

Semantics and Linguistic Theory IV

Edited by Mandy Harvey and Lynn Santelmann

Cornell University
Department of Modern Languages and Linguistics
Ithaca 1994
Contents

Nicholas Asher and Pierre Sablayrolles
A Compositional Spatio-temporal Semantics for French Motion Verbs and Spatial PPs ................................................................. 1

Emmon Bach
The Meanings of Words .................................................................. 16

David Beaver
When Variables Don’t Vary Enough .................................................. 35

Mary Dalrymple, Makoto Kanazawa, Sam Mchombo and Stanley Peters
What do Reciprocals Mean? ............................................................. 61

Paul Dekker
Predicate Logic with Anaphora .......................................................... 79

Viviane Déprez
Questions with Floated Quantifiers ..................................................... 96

David Dowty
The Role of Negative Polarity and Concord Marking in Natural Language Reasoning ................................................................. 114

Jack Hoeksema
A Semantic Argument for Complex Predicates .................................. 145

Pauline Jacobson
Binding Connectivity in Copular Sentences ......................................... 161

Emiel Krahmer and Reinhard Muskens
Umbrellas and Bathrooms ................................................................. 179

Manfred Krifka
The Semantics and Pragmatics of Weak and Strong Polarity Items in Assertions ................................................................. 195

William A. Ladusaw
Thetic and Categorical, Stage and Individual, Weak and Strong .......... 220

Sally McConnell-Ginet
On the Non-Optionality of Certain Modifiers ..................................... 230

Toshiyuki Ogihara
Adverbs of Quantification and Sequence-of-Tense Phenomena .......... 251
Matthias Paul
Young Mozart and the Joking Woody Allen
Proper Names, Individuals and Parts ........................................... 268

Massimo Poesio
Weak Definites ......................................................................... 282
Acknowledgments

This proceedings contains papers presented at the fourth conference on Semantics and Linguistic Theory, May 6-8, 1994, at the University of Rochester. 19 papers were presented at the conference; 14 of those are in this volume. Also included are the alternate papers for the conference. Thanks to the authors of the papers which appear here for their cooperation in submitting camera-ready copy. Unfortunately, the papers presented by the following authors were not available for publication in this volume: Robin Cooper, Veneeta Dayal, Kai von Fintel, Jo-want Lin and Craige Roberts.

The conference was organized by Chris Barker, Greg Carlson, Claudia Ho, Graham Katz, Peter Lasersohn and Beverly Spejewski. Many thanks to them, and to the University of Rochester Linguistics Department, the Center for the Sciences of Language, the Cognitive Science Program, and the College of Arts and Science for making the conference possible. Thanks also to Roberta Colon for administrative work, to our abstract reviewers, and to everyone who helped with registration, cleaning up, and various other chores.

Finally, thanks to the Department of Modern Languages and Linguistics at Cornell University and especially to Michael Bernstein for making this publication possible.

Mandy Harvey
Lynn Santelmann
Editors