

Editors' Note

John Kingston, Claire Moore-Cantwell, Joe Pater, and Robert Staubs
University of Massachusetts Amherst

1 Introduction

It is our great pleasure to present this collection of papers developed from presentations at Phonology 2013, held at the University of Massachusetts Amherst on November 9th and 10th. Papers in the Proceedings were presented orally, and papers in the Supplemental Proceedings were presented as posters. To cite papers in these volumes, we would like to ask you to use the following format, illustrated for a paper in the Proceedings (for the Supplemental Proceedings, add Supplemental to the volume title):

Authors. Paper title. Kingston, John, Moore-Cantwell, Claire, Pater, Joe and Staubs, Robert (eds.), Proceedings of the 2013 Meeting on Phonology. Linguistic Society of America, Washington, DC. URL.

In the rest of this note, we would like to extend our thanks to all of those who made the conference and these proceedings possible. Our first thanks goes to all who presented their research at the conference, especially to those who contributed their work to the proceedings, as well as to all of the other phonologists whose presence at the meeting made for such an intellectually lively and collegial gathering. A few numbers: there were 3 plenary talks, 16 refereed oral presentations, 60 refereed posters, and 125 registered participants. The wonderful talks by our plenary speakers John McCarthy, Sharon Peperkamp and Kevin Ryan did not become proceedings papers, but the slides from their talks are archived at the conference website:

2 The Department of Linguistics administrative staff

Two people who did not attend the conference were also largely responsible for its success, and also deserve a particularly prominent thank you. Tom Maxfield and Michelle McBride took on many of the organizational tasks for this conference on top of their regular duties, and many a disaster was averted by their foresight in the planning process.

3 Conference volunteers

Thanks to David Erschler, Lena Fainleib, Ivy Hauser, Hsin-Lun Huang, Coral Hughto, Nick LaCara, Jon Ander Mendia, Alex Nazarov, J  r  my Pasquereau, Presley Pizzo, Ethan Poole, Amanda Rysling, Brian Smith and Megan Somerday – PhD students of the Department of Linguistics – along with Anne-Michelle Tessier and Kristine Yu, for running the conference registration, chairing sessions, and handling the many other tasks that came up during the conference.

4 Proceedings

Thanks to Jessi Grieser and Alyson Reed of the Linguistic Society of America for all of their work in setting up the Proceedings and its website. Thanks to Max Bane for having developed the LaTeX materials for the Cascadilla Proceedings Project, and for helping us to adapt them for our purposes.

5 Funding

We are very grateful to the College of Humanities and Fine Arts of the University of Massachusetts Amherst for its financial support of this conference. Additional funding came from the research funds of the phonetics and phonology faculty. The pre-conference methods tutorial workshop was funded by the Institute for Computational and Experimental Study of Language.

6 Advice and inspiration

Ellen Kaisse was particularly instrumental in the conception of this conference, and we especially thank her for all of her advice and help. We also received useful advice from Adam Albright, Eric Baković, Patrick Honeybone, John McCarthy, and Marc van Oostendorp, as well as inspiration from the conferences Marc and Patrick have contributed so much to over the years: the Manchester Phonology Meeting and the Old-World Conference on Phonology. Thanks too for all of the ideas contributed by UMass phonologists over breakfast at the North Hadley Sugar Shack.
